

Online LSVT LOUD Training and Certification for Speech Therapy Programs

Goals for Student Training

Students will learn this evidence-based treatment approach for Parkinson's and other neurological conditions, building upon their neuro, motor speech and voice coursework. They can then provide LSVT LOUD during their clinical externships or at the University clinic under the mentorship of an LSVT LOUD Certified Clinician. When they enter the workforce, students will be ready to begin impacting the lives of many people with Parkinson disease and other disorders over the course of their careers.

For SLP program faculty, we make offering this course to your students very simple and straightforward, as we know how busy both you and your students are!

Three Training Options

Individual Learning	Blend of Individual and Group Learning	Group Learning
Each person learns on their own time. Self-paced	Learners complete select modules on their own. Meet as a group for modules which have interactive practice.	Meet to learn simultaneously and practice with each other. Complete the whole course in as little as two days, or parse it out over sixty.

For all three models:

- Optional Virtual Live quarterly lab session provides an opportunity to practice with other participants and people with PD while receiving faculty feedback.
- Optional Q&A session is offered by LSVT LOUD faculty at the conclusion of the course.
- Students may join monthly “Office Hours” on Zoom if they have questions.
- University faculty facilitator can learn right along with the students.
- Complimentary access to the LSVT LOUD Simucase for all participants.

After Graduation

Students should contact LSVT Global upon graduation to be upgraded to professional status, free of charge. A professional certificate will be mailed to them, and they can be listed on the LSVT Global directory for referrals once they are licensed.
